Attiya Khan,

Saxon State Ministry for Economic Affairs, Labour and Transportation

Dr. Attiya Khan, psychologist and Master of Public Health, works at the Saxon State Ministry for Economic Affairs, Labour and Transportation in the department for occupational safety and medicine. She is responsible for the field of psychological strains and occupational health promotion. She started her career as a health counselor in a cardiological hospital in Berlin. Listening to her patients, she realized the impact of work on well-being and got interested in the field of occupational health. She supported various organisations in implementing programs of health promotion. Her fields of interests are approaches that maximize the participation of workers in the process of gaining health at work.
